Antinol Plus and the Senior Dog Veterinary Society Announce Partnership to Elevate Joint Care for Senior Dogs

[Fort Lauderdale, FL - February 9, 2026] – Antinol Plus, clinically proven joint and mobility care for companion animals, is teaming up with the Senior Dog Veterinary Society (SDVS) to support veterinarians in diagnosing and managing mobility issues in senior dogs.

According to research from MRI-Simmons and Global Pets, “senior” dogs are represented in up to 52% of dog-owning households. In population, that equates to 45-48 million pets.

Antinol Plus and the SDVS seek to equip veterinarians with education and meaningful resources to support dogs as they age. They believe that mobility is essential to lifelong health and happiness. The collaboration combines Antinol Plus’s science-backed joint support and SDVS’s leadership in senior canine care.

“Antinol Plus’s mission is to keep happiness in motion for pets and their families,” said Ofelia Silva, President of Pet HealthWorks, the exclusive distributor of Antinol Plus. “Partnering with the Senior Dog Veterinary Society allows us to ensure veterinarians have the tools and knowledge to help dogs live long, active lives.”

The Antinol Plus and SDVS collaboration focuses on whole-life mobility, a growing area of veterinary medicine. As dogs live longer, veterinarians are seeking practical, science-backed solutions that maintain comfort and independence well into a pet's senior years.

“Mobility is foundational to a senior dog’s quality of life,” said Dr. Monica Tarantino, a founder of the Senior Dog Veterinary Society. “Partnering with Antinol Plus allows us to spotlight joint health as a daily, proactive part of aging well and to support veterinarians with evidence-informed options that help senior dogs stay comfortable, active, and engaged for as long as possible.”
